

KOPERNIK INTERNATIONAL FUND

NOVEMBER 2024

FUND OBJECTIVE

The Kopernik International Fund (the "Fund") seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation.

FUND HIGHLIGHTS

- The Fund will invest primarily in equity securities of companies in any country, market, and sector/industry, generally across the mid- to large- market capitalization range.
- The Fund may invest up to 15% of its net assets in U.S. domiciled businesses that have significant business activities outside the United States, as determined by the Adviser.
- Philosophy and process designed to capitalize on market dislocations based on fear and greed (i.e., identifying mispriced securities due to prevailing market sentiment).
- Intensive, original research leads to deep understanding of portfolio holdings.
- Risk is viewed on an absolute term and defined as permanent loss of capital/purchasing power.
- Opportunistic portfolio which we believe will have low correlation to other managers.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

The Fund may purchase or write options, which involve the payment or receipt of a premium by the investor and the corresponding right or obligation, as the case may be, to either purchase or sell the underlying instrument for a specific price at a certain time or during a certain period. Purchasing options involves the risk that the underlying instrument will not change price in the manner expected, so that the investor loses its premium. Put and call options on indices give the holder the right to receive, upon exercise of the option, an amount of cash if the closing level of the underlying index is greater than (or less than, in the case of puts) the exercise price of the option. This amount of cash is equal to the difference between the closing price of the index and the exercise price of the option, expressed in dollars multiplied by a specified number. Thus, unlike options on individual securities, all settlements are in cash, and gain or loss depends on price movements in the particular market represented by the index generally, rather than the price movements in individual securities.

Mutual fund investing involves risk, including possible loss of principal. There can be no assurance that the Fund will achieve its stated objectives. Equity funds are subject generally to market, market sector, market liquidity, issuer, and investment style risks, among other factors, to varying degrees, all of which are more fully described in the Fund's prospectus. Investments in foreign securities may underperform and may be more volatile than comparable U.S. securities because of the risks involving foreign economies and markets, foreign political systems, foreign regulatory standards, foreign currencies and taxes. Investments in foreign and emerging markets present additional risks, such as increased volatility and lower trading volume.
