How did the Fund perform in the last year?

2024 continued to be the tale of two markets: the U.S. market, dominated by the Magnificent 7 and priced for perfection, and the rest of the market, left behind by investors, with many attractively priced opportunities in real assets and emerging markets economies. Investors focused myopically on the United States, even in the face of higher interest rates, persistent inflation, large budget deficits, and substantial debt. Despite these headwinds, concentrated stock leadership became narrower; companies with high valuations rose further. The S&P 500 Index and NASDAQ were both up more than 35% during the fiscal year. Market concentration in the U.S. remained pronounced; the top 10 companies make up roughly 35% of the S&P 500 and 51% of the NASDAQ 100. The Magnificent 7 alone make up 31% of the S&P and 44% of the NASDAQ.

Prolonged unbridled momentum is both frustrating and exciting for active managers like Kopernik. Frustrating as it has been a very long time since investors have cared about price; exciting because of the attractive investment opportunities that have been created in its wake. Investors' focus on the U.S. and on momentum stocks means that we are finding market leading companies trading at massive discounts in parts of the world that are unloved and/or in industries that are perceived to be too risky. The conflation of volatility and investment risk, and the resultant avoidance of volatile stocks, has in actuality reduced risk since the prices paid for these companies are often well below book value, replacement value, resources in the ground, or sales. We are, unsurprisingly, finding these opportunities where the crowd is not: in real assets and emerging markets ("EM").

As active managers, we took advantage of positive performance in the gold mining space, trimming positions and rolling proceeds into miners with more upside, such as platinum group metal and lithium producers. The Fund's holdings include the world's two largest platinum miners, Impala Platinum Holdings Ltd. and Anglo American Platinum Ltd, as well as two low-cost lithium producers, Sociedad Quimica y Minera de Chile SA ("SQM"), and Arcadium Lithium PLC. The Fund's positions in gold, platinum, lithium, and other miners contributed 12.3% to total Fund returns during the fiscal year.

During the fiscal year, 40% of the Fund was in emerging markets, and EMs contributed 11.1% to total Fund returns during the year. Nearly half of the Fund's EM exposure comes from South Korea, which, while classified by MSCI as an emerging market, has many characteristics of more developed economies. Companies in South Korea contributed 3.9% to total Fund returns.

Although the Fund had double-digit returns for the fiscal year, there were detractors. The largest detractor was the Fund's put option on the S&P 500 Index, which detracted 8.3% from total Fund returns. The Fund's second-largest detractor was Gabriel Resources Ltd, which detracted 0.9% from total Fund returns during the fiscal year.

Householding

Rule 30e-1 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 permits funds to transmit only one copy of a proxy statement, annual report or semi-annual report to shareholders (who need not be related) with the same residential, commercial or electronic address, provided that the shareholders have consented in writing and the reports are addressed either to each shareholder individually or to the shareholders as a group. This process is known as “householding” and is designed to reduce the duplicate copies of materials that shareholders receive and to lower printing and mailing costs for funds. Once implemented, if you would like to discontinue householding for your accounts, please call toll-free at 1-855-887-4544 to request individual copies of these documents. Once the Fund receives notice to stop householding, we will begin sending individual copies 30 days after receiving your request.
